TAFT GETS MAD; SHAKES FIST

Pounds Banquet Board and Shouts Defiance at Critics of Trust Law.

SEES SOCIALISM COMING

"Bait" Used by Pittsburgers to Sed Presidential Temper Awandering. Works Like a Charm and Famous Smile Vanishes.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Members of President Taft's party are today rejoicing over a tilt that took place between the president and Pittsburgers at the banquet in the smoky city which was given in honor of the chief executive during his visit here.

When the after dinner speaking stage had arrived, the members of the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce, carried out a formulated plan of "baiting" the president on the trust question.

Scores of millionaires and officials of the steel trust attended the feast and Congressman Martin Littleton was designated to cast the "bait" for the president.

In a warm speech, Congressman Littleton bitterly denounced the Sherman Anti-trust law and demanded that it be repealed immediately, declaring that some business enterprises were victims of the law, while others of the same character had escaped its coils.

The banqueters cheered the congressman loudly, and President Taft, mad clear through to the core, unmasked himself of his famous smile, arose to his feet, and after attacking Littleton's argument with much and vociferous pounding on the table, which caused the dishes to rattle, he shook his fist (the size of a ham) at Littleton and denied that the law was indefinite and challenged any one to name a corporation that was innocent which had suffered or had been convicted under the Sherman law.

Mr. Taft stated that he knew that he was talking to men who favored the trusts, but still he believed the law was just and predicted that other trusts would meet their downfall, through it, or that socialism would step into the government.

UNCLE SAM'S DOGS OF WAR REVIEWED

New York, Nov. 1.—Sweeping majestically down the Hudson river, in double column, the greatest fleet of warships ever assembled under the American flag, passed in review this morning before Secretary Von Meyer of the United States navy department.

The head of the navy was aboard the Mayflower and hundreds of thousands of spectators lined the banks of the river to witness the imposing spectacle.

As the Mayflower steamed between the columns of battleships, with Secretary Meyer standing forward with head uncovered, each of the ships fired a salute of nineteen guns, in his honor.

PRANKERS TO FACE JUVENILE OFFICER

Tamper With Railroad Equipment

Place Handcar on Track and Wreck Averted by Timely Arrival of a Policeman.

What might have proved a Halloween prank with serious consequences was prevented last night by the vigilance of Officer Tra Hughes, who patrolled the east end of the city. Shortly after 8 o'clock he discovered a handcar placed on the O-W, R. & N. track by a gang of boys, which, if it had not been removed, would undoubtedly have caused a wreck. Officer Hughes did not content himself with undoing the boys' work but he made a search and captured the gang responsible, took their names and ordered them to report before John Halley, juvenile officer, Saturday. The gang was then dispersed and after nine o'clock all was quiet and peaceful in the east end of the city. This crowd did more serious damage than any other last night, nearly all of the complaints coming from the zone of their operations.

With the passing of Halloween residents of the city are safe for another year from the depredations of mischievous young America, but there are some this morning who think that once a year is entirely too often for such pranks as are played on the last day of October. While no serious damage has been reported to the police, a great many property owners are complaining of minor losses. Many gates are missing from their hinges, fences are torn down, a number of wagons have been found far from their sheds and one man at least, William Pedro, awoke this morning to find that his cord of wood, just sawed, had been distributed in armfuls to his different neighbors.

Other observances of the night were less destructive, a number of parties parading the streets in spooky attire and creeping from house to house with jack-o-lanterns and tick-tacks.

TRAIN ROBBERS OVER LOOK HALF MILLION

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1.—Two masked men held up a westbound Rock Island mail train near Hurlbert, Ark., this morning and escaped with little of anything of value. One covered the mail clerk with a revolver while the other rifled the registered mails. There was $500,000 in one safe in the express car but the robbers overlooked it and blew only a small safe, after they had rifled the mails and lined the engineer and clerks up, after forcing the engineer to drive his train onto a siding at Arkansas Junction, near here, where they had flagged the train. They fled and possess are pursuing.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 1.—Professor John Montgomery of Santa Clara College, who has for years been noted for his successful work as the inventor of an aeroplane glider, as well as for the invention of an electrical refrigerator, which has been the subject of litigation in New York and San Francisco, was killed near Edenvale yesterday afternoon while experimenting with an aeroplane glider.

Mud Turtles Go To School.

When the Northern Pacific train pulled out this afternoon, Express Messenger Steel had in his custody a box containing a couple of dozen or more live mud turtles consigned from Indiana to a professor in the Ellensburg Normal school. Whether or not the turtles are a new species being introduced in the northwest or whether they are to satisfy the epicurean tastes of the Washington highbrow is a matter of speculation.

FEDERAL PROBE FOR M'NAMARA

Indiana Court Surrenders Documents of Iron Workers to U. S. Jury.

PROSECUTION IS PLEASD

Humor Injected Into Monotonous Proceedings by Witty Venireman Who Questions Veracity of Certain City Officials of Los Angeles.

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—A federal probe of the McNamara case was assured today when the state courts here turned over all documents and books, taken by Detective Burns in a raid of the headquarters of the Iron Workers' union, to the jurisdiction of the United States grand jury which will investigate the McNamara dynamite charges.

Judge Markey surrendered the documents after a long argument. The jury starts its work during November and if sufficient evidence is secured John and James McNamara will be charged with conspiracy to violate the federal laws, by carrying explosives from one state to another.

Prosecutor Pleasd. Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—Neither District Attorney Fredericks or any of the counsel for the McNamara defense would talk much concerning the decision of the Indianapolis court in turning over the documents of the Iron Workers' Union to the United States grand jury.

Fredericks is plainly pleased and showed that he expected soon to have possession of the documents himself. Clarence Darrow said: "It was to be expected. It's not surprising." The third panel of veniremen was qualified today by Judge Boardwell and the early part of today's session was devoted to this task.

So far 225 men have been drawn and nine jurors subject to peremptory challenge are in the box. It is believed that six of them will be excused. Lorenzo Romanes, a former locomotive engineer, but now a real estate man was today passed by the defense.

He was challenged by the state because he said he would not believe certain city officials on oath. Romanes is witty and kept the court in an uproar of laughter.

POST GIVES LIFE STORY OF C. S. JACKSON

Rise of Former East Oregonian Publisher Told in Interesting Manner: He Washed Stages.

The following interesting tale of the adventures and rise of C. S. Jackson, former publisher of the East Oregonian and now the owner of the Oregon Journal, appears in the current week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post. The story appears in the "Who's Who and Why" department and is headed "The Book of Samuel."

Sandy Bottom, down on the Rappahannock, in Virginia, was Sam Jackson's habitat and he never did get to see Baltimore until his father sent him up by boat, when he was eighteen, to buy some goods for the stores. Sam's father ran one of the stores and Sam ran the other. Sam had heard of railroads, but had never seen one, and there were a lot of other things he had never seen, either, including a lady with web feet.

Being a Virginian, Sam had kin in Baltimore. Virginians have kin everywhere, but particularly in all southern cities. They can trace kin through convolutions that would stump any but the expert tracers of the Old Dominion. Likewise, as is the custom, Sam went to visit his kin when he got to Baltimore. This pleasant custom not only renews family ties, but saves hotel bills. There was a lady staying with Sam's kin, visiting also. Her third cousin had married the stepson of his mother's grandniece, or something like that.

Anyhow, she was a pretty lady and she lived in Oregon, a place Sam thought was somewhere on the other side of the world. Sam asked who she was and his male kin told him: "Oh she's a web-foot"—which is what they used to call Oregonians, you know. Maybe they do yet. It

TURKS CAPTURE ITALIAN GEN'L

Italians Being Driven Back to Coast in Tripolitan Campaign.

MAY RETURN TO WARSHIPS

In Face of These Reported Reverses, Italian Government Threatens to Increase Demands on Sultan and Sledge All Turkish Islands.

Constantinople, Turkey, Nov. 1.—War Minister Chekfat Pasha gave out an official announcement to the effect that General Caneva, commanding the Italian army in the Tripolitan campaign, had been captured and is now being held a prisoner by the Turks. Foreign diplomats are inclined to discredit the announcement.

A dispatch received from the Turkish commander in Tripoli, states that the capture of General Caneva was effected after a hard fought battle in which the Italians were decisively beaten by the Turkish forces and their Arab allies, on the outskirts of the city of Tripoli.

War Minister Pasha announces that the Turkish army is steadily forcing the Italian army to retreat toward the coast and expressed confidence that the Italians would be compelled to again board their warships which are now off the Tripolitan coast. He declares that the Turks have captured five more forts from the Italians.

Italy to Increase Demands. Rome, Italy, Nov. 1.—The Italian cabinet has officially announced that unless Turkey comes to the terms laid down by the Italian government, that Italy will increase her territorial demands against the sultan. It is believed that the cabinet is preparing to order the seizure of all Turkish islands.

The foreign office characterizes as absurd the report from Constantinople that the Turkish forces have captured general Caneva at Tripoli.

Anarchists Give Trouble. Nice, France, Nov. 1.—Wholesale arrest of anarchists, throughout Italy, are reported by advices from the frontier. Jap Whalers Shoot Russians. Victoria, B. C., Nov. 1.—News of a fatal sealing raid at the Copper Islands by the Japanese sealers has been received here. The Japanese, Maru and Toso Maru, anchored off the seal rookeries in a mist. The Russian patrol cruiser arrived and they all weighed anchor and ran, leaving their small boats, which were hauled up on the beach while their crews were killing seals. There were five boat crews ashore from the three raiders, and when the rookery guards came to arrest them, some of the raiders opened fire on the Russians with rifles.

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—Practically complete returns from 242 out of 245 precincts give Harriman the socialist is majority candidate a lead of 2,332 over Mayor Alexander.

Approximately 45,000 votes were cast as follows: Harriman 17,591, Alexander 15,455, Musher 1,343 and Gregory 244.

With the possible exception of the city attorney, a complete socialist ticket was nominated to oppose the "good government" nominees headed by Alexander.

Mayor Alexander said: "The vote I received was about as large as I expected. I feel certain that I will be elected December 5th, but I must confess that Harriman polled a surprisingly large vote."

Harriman said: "I will win out at the general election. Most of Musher's votes will be delivered to me and the entire socialist ticket will be victorious in December."

Harriman claims that he will be elected by the women voters. They were not given right of suffrage in time to take part in yesterday's primaries, but several thousand women are registered now and they claim that they are socialists, for most part.

With Harriman and Alexander making the race, the December campaign is expected to be the hottest in the history of the city.

The billiard and pool tables have all been recovered and fitted up for play, the club is already receiving nearly all of the monthly publications of the country and a large assortment of newspapers, and other measures will be adopted to make the rooms an enjoyable place in which the members may spend their spare hours.

All members are urged to come up to the rooms as often as possible and to bring any strangers in the city with them so that all may become better acquainted and profit directly from their connection with the association.

Co-Eds Work as Servants. Kansas City.—Twenty-five co-eds are paying their way through a four-year course at the University of Missouri by working as domestic servants, Miss Chapman, head of the Y. W. C. A. employment bureau, says. One girl, the strong, rugged daughter of a farmer, goes out doing washing.

Fourteen have an easier way, they earn 15 cents an hour each amusing children with games and stories, so as to free the mothers of care and enable them to go out.

YUAN IS NEW CHINESE RULER

REBELS WILL NEGOTIATE

Defeated Imperialists Pillage Country and Slaughter Defenseless Peasants Along Line of Retreat—Empress Flees from Peking.

Peking, China, Nov. 1.—Yuan Shi Kai was today made premier of the Chinese empire by appointment, thus making him virtually the supreme ruler of China.

Shortly after the official announcement of his appointment, Premier Yuan issued a brief statement in which he declared that he intends to cause hostilities between the imperial and insurgent forces to cease and enter into negotiations with General Li Yuan Hung, the revolutionist leader, with the view of stopping the war and re-establishing peaceful relations.

Rear Admiral Morduck, who was ordered by the American government to go to Hankow and protect American interests, arrived in Shanghai today from Manila on the transport Rainbow, with 355 marines. He will immediately start up the river to Hankow, with his small force.

Fleeing Army Slaes Peasants. Peking, China, Nov. 1.—Confirmation of earlier reports that Hankow has again fallen into the hands of the rebels, has been received here and it is now admitted that the revolutionists again control that district.

The defeated imperial army is reported to be fleeing north, pillaging the country and slaughtering peasants by wholesale, along their line of retreat. Telegraphic communication between Peking and Hankow has again been severed.

In Peking, the situation is regarded as extremely critical. The entire northern army has joined the army league and has flatly refused to serve longer in defense of the Manchu dynasty, unless all demands made by them are granted.

The Manchu throne is protected by merely a handful of troops, which would be wholly inadequate to an attack by a rebel force of any proportions.
